READING TEXT

Read the following opinion piece and refer to it in your answer to Question Two on page 7.

¿Somos libres de elegir?

Cuando se acerca el verano, seguro que más de uno nos preguntamos si las agencias publicitarias van a transportarnos a un lugar idílico, luminoso, festivo. Así, esperamos encontrarnos con publicidades que nos transporten a lugares de ensueño, logrando transmitir sensaciones, emociones y valores positivos a los que la marca en cuestión desea asociarse.

Por ejemplo, una pizza bajo el sol con la familia o los amigos no se trata solo de comer, sino es una oportunidad para charlar, divertirse, compartir experiencias – es la excusa para que, pase lo que pase, compartamos buenos momentos. Un refresco tomado con amigos se hace un ícono de la amistad y la alegría de vivir.

Esta publicidad puede influir en la toma de decisiones. Aunque creas que los anuncios que te bombardean durante todo el día no influyen en ti, estás más que equivocado. De hecho, cuanta menos atención prestes, más eficaz será. Un estudio por Robert George Heath, profesor de la Universidad de Bath en Inglaterra, señala que es imposible escapar de los efectos de la publicidad, ya que el contenido emotivo de los 'spots' nos hace susceptibles.

¡Imagínate! Estás tranquilo en casa y de pronto tienes muchas ganas de un helado. No sabes por qué. Resulta que un spot de una conocida marca de dulces se ha colado en tu subconsciente, ha despertado tu deseo de comprar ese producto con la promesa de que al consumirlo te sentirás bien.

Queremos creer que nuestras opciones de consumo son lógicas, pero la motivación más potente que guía nuestras decisiones de consumo es, en realidad, nuestra predisposición emocional. La gran mayoría de nuestras decisiones de compra se basa en las emociones. Y ¿qué vende la publicidad eficaz? No vende productos; nos vende valores y estilos de vida envidiables. Existe para tocarnos el corazón.

En unos países esto es más evidente en la época navideña. La publicidad quiere inundarnos con buenos sentimientos. Es tiempo de incentivar la paz y el cuidado de otros y son muchas las marcas que lanzan campañas que se aprovechan de esto. ¡Piensa en los anuncios más esperados de España! Los de la lotería son siempre encantadores y de alta calidad, con sus actores conocidos y guionistas famosos. Los spots que relatan un cuento con final feliz o un sueño hecho realidad juegan un papel fundamental en la publicidad actual porque apelan directamente a los sentimientos y por eso vamos a verlos cada vez más.
